

2018 E&AS CLIENT WORKSHOP
~ DESIGN-BUILD BEST PRACTICES ~
PANELIST BIOS

WALTER SCHACHT, FAIA

Walter is a principal at Schacht Aslani Architects in Seattle. He is focused on projects for educational, cultural and civic institutions. Walter's community college and university projects include design-build procurements. He serves as architects' representative to the Capital Projects Advisory Review Board (CPARB), was co-chair of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee and is currently on CPARB's Design-Build Statute Review Committee.

OLIVIA YANG, AIA

Olivia is Associate Vice-President, Facilities Services at Washington State University. She oversees university's capital projects team which has been a leader implementing design-build for public works. Olivia served two terms as higher education's representative to the Capital Projects Advisory Review Board and was co-chair member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

JOHN PALEWICZ, AIA, DBIA

John served as a leader in the University of Washington's Capital Planning and Development office for over twenty years leading owner teams on a wide range of large, complex projects. He is experienced with design-build, GCCM and public/private partnerships. He is currently a senior consultant with Parametrix. John chaired CPARB's Project Review Committee and served on CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

NICK DATZ

Nick is Manager of Procurement and Contracts at Sound Transit. He has a comprehensive understanding of alternative project delivery methods including design-build and general contractor/construction manager (GCCM). Nick was a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee and is currently on CPARB's Design-Build Statute Review Committee.

STEVE CRAWFORD

Steve is the Director of Capital Projects for the Issaquah School District where he has managed over $370,000,000 in construction projects. He is an architect, the school districts' representative to CPARB and was a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

JANICE ZAHN

Janice is Assistant Director of Engineering/Director of Construction Management for the Port of Seattle. She has twenty-seven years of experience in planning, design, manufacturing, project and construction management of major capital construction projects. Janice is vice-chair of CPARB's Project Review Committee and was a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

ELISA YOUNG

Elisa is an Associate Director at the Office of Minority and Business Enterprises (OMWBE) where she is focused on equity, diversity and inclusion through compliance with state and federal requirements for EEO, supplier diversity, Title XI, accessibility, and. She is a member of local and national professional and philanthropic organizations and is a member of CPARB's Design-Build Statute Review Committee.

VINCE CAMPANELLA, DBIA

Vince is Vice-President of Operations for Lydig's eastern region. He leads teams for a wide range of public projects including higher education. Many are design-build procurements. Vince was president of the Inland NW Chapter of the Association of General Contractors, served two terms as the general contractors' representative to the Capital Projects Advisory Review Board and was as a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

BILL KENT, DBIA

Bill is a Project Executive at Mortenson in Seattle. He leads teams for higher education, hospitality, judicial and tribal projects many of which are design-build procurements. Bill teaches the Design-Build Institute of America's (DBIA) certification course nation-wide, serves on the Pacific Region Council for the Society for College and University Planning (SCUP) and was a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

GEORGE SHAW, FAIA

George is a partner at LMN Architects in Seattle. He focuses on public works, leading projects for higher education, performing arts and convention centers, venues and higher education facilities many of them procured through design-build. George is nationally recognized for his comprehensive understanding of planning, design, management and cost control. He served as a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.

BECKY BARNHART, AIA

Becky is an Associate Principal at Integrus Architecture in Spokane. She focuses on higher education projects, leading stakeholders and design teams in the programming and planning process. Becky has written numerous predesign studies for design-build projects. She served as a member of CPARB's Design-Build Best Practices Committee.